

OVERVIEW

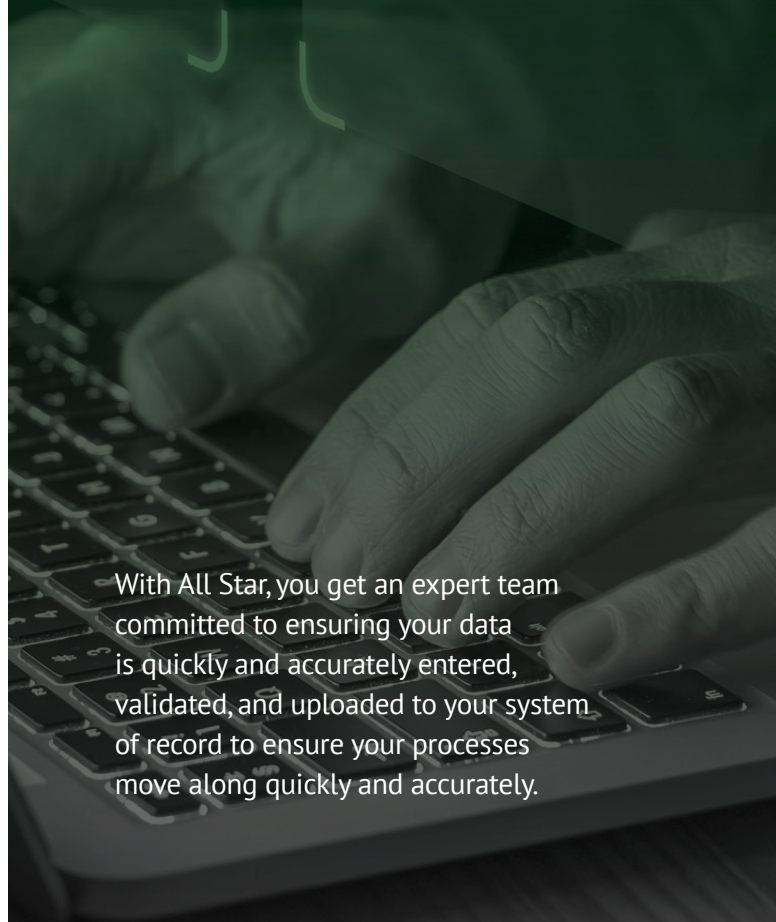

DATA VALIDATION SERVICES

Data validation services provide ways to automate and digitize data from documents like vendor invoices, vendor statements, and customer purchase orders so your staff can spend their time on higher-value tasks while your data stays secure and accurate.

All Star augments your staff by performing this data validation for you – in whatever way works best for your business. We work in the systems we provide, correct any items in question, and fine-tune the system to ensure the best data extraction possible.

Validation services offer several benefits to businesses of any size and industry. Learn how they can serve your company and what comes with All Star's validation services.

ALL STAR
SOFTWARE SYSTEMS

With All Star, you get an expert team committed to ensuring your data is quickly and accurately entered, validated, and uploaded to your system of record to ensure your processes move along quickly and accurately.

WHAT ARE VALIDATION SERVICES?

Validation services involve adding All Star experts to your data extraction, data validation, and quality control processes. All Star's experts complement and augment your team by providing manual data entry, validation of optical character recognition (OCR) extraction, and validation of exceptions based on rules and logic. Validation services introduce automation into your manual data entry processes to remove the human element from performing data entry and to ensure data is correctly entered into your line-of-business systems.

In today's digital world, an automated, secure way of digitizing your company's data is essential to staying competitive. You need accurate data to be accessible to the right parties and available for analysis to operate efficiently and make future plans. Validation services take the burden of data entry and data validation off the hands of your human staff so you can reallocate those resources to better, more strategic work.

WHAT DO YOU GET WITH VALIDATION SERVICES FROM ALL STAR?

Your staff will no longer have to validate data extraction or perform data entry. For example, if All Star has provided a solution, such as OCR, that extracts data from documents, All Star's experts can perform the validation for you.

The data validation process includes reviewing the data for quality, making appropriate corrections, approving "suggestions" from the system, and updating the knowledge base via machine learning and AI.

WE BECOME A PART OF YOUR TEAM

All Star takes care of your data entry and validation, becoming an extension of your staff. Your employees can then work on tasks requiring their specific expertise and won't be bogged down with tedious data entry, while All Star's resources take complete ownership of data validation.

YOU CHOOSE HOW TO WORK WITH ALL STAR

You can use All Star as much or as little as you want based on your bandwidth and needs. You do not need to buy technology through All Star to leverage our data validation services. You can use our experts for your entire data validation process or use us during high-volume periods when you most need staff augmentation. With an easy, flexible, hourly-based payment model, you choose what works best for you.

100% US-BASED RESOURCES

All Star does not outsource our expertise. All of our data validation experts are on U.S. soil.
